FRIDAY, MAY 9, 1862.

Senator Sherman, of Ohio, in the course of a debate on the confiscation bill several days ago, made this somewhat remarkable assertion :

A confiscation bill is purely a military measure. It can only be justified, if it is a proper and necessary measure, in prosecuting war. A rebellion so formidable as this is a civil war, and must be subdued by open war. Prosecutions for treason are civil remedies, after war is over, enforced by courts, juries, witnesses, and all the incidents of legal trial. The Constitution surrounds such a trial with numerous safeguards. It must be by due process of law; it must be in a state or district previously ascertained by law; it must be by a jury; it must be upon indictment found by a grand jury; the witnesses must be examined in open court; and the punishment cannot extend to a forfeiture of estate beyond the life of the accused. It is, therefore, manifest that if confiscation is a civil remedy, every measure proposed is tion is a civil remedy, every measure proposed is unconstitutional.

But it is not a civil remedy. It is war. It is war against an open foe in arms. It is to be tested by the laws of war, by the law of force. We kill our enemies without trial; we enter upon their land; we destroy their property; we commit numerous acts unjustifiable except by the laws of war. We punish without conviction. To test the constitutionality of this act by the safeguards prescribed for the citizen, would be as ridiculous as to invoke a jury before you kill your enemy in s to invoke a jury before you kill your enemy in

Now, Senator Sherman in this assertion places himself between the horns of a dilemma. If confiscation as presented in the pending bills is a civil remedy, which the Senator denies, he admits that it is unconstitutional but if it is a war measure, which he asserts, nobody denies that it violates the rules of civilized warfare, which exempt private property on land from confiscation. Therefore, the policy, whether it be deemed a civil remedy or a war measure, and it must be one or the other, is, according to the Senator's own showing, unlawful and indefensible. And such is the incontestable truth.

But this scheme of confiscation, regarded as a war measure, violates not only the rules of civilized warfare, but the dictates of common prudence. It is impolitic as well as unlawful. It it absurdly impolitic. We confess the feature of this entire discussion which has seemed | by way of Petersburg, they will be overtaken, most inexplicable to us is the honest belief of and compelled to turn and give battle, or some rational men that the fulmination of a break up and scatter never to be gathered triumph of our arms. How any rational man | so diverse and heterogeneous, that demorali- her? can honestly believe this we cannot compre- zation once commencing will be rapid and alhend. The belief assumes that what at best most total. That a great tendency toward must remain void until our arms shall triumph such demoralization already exists among to the rebel army. will nevertheless promote their triumph. It them is sufficiently plain. The conduct inverts and confounds the necessary order of of the soldiers as reported, and the things. It is literally preposterous.

Consider, in this point of view, the opera- indicate it. Such facts as the barbartion of Mr. Trumbull's confiscation bill, for ous concealment of torpedoes in abandoned example, which confiscates the property stores and carpet bags, indicate, instead of an and frees the slaves of all found in army held together by a high moral principle, arms against the Union or giving aid and comfort to the rebellion. How, in the name of human reason, could this measure contribute to the triumph of our arms? The assumption of the friends of the measure is that the rebels would instantly lay down their gy of McClellan, the military experiment has arms and withdraw their aid and comfort for fear of being impoverished by the federal ion to sustain itself by force of arms is proved government! Do these shallow mor- beyond a doubt. The appeal to arms has rein a terrible degree. The fear of being impoverished by the revolutionary government would prevent the rebels from laying down their arms and withdrawing their aid and comfort, on the one hand, while, on the other, having thus unavoidably incurred the penalty denounced against them by the federal government, the fear of being impoverished by that would stimulate them to oppose its triumph with the energy of despair. Furthermore, this powerful stimulus would be heightened indefinitely by the conviction that the measure was in fact nothing more or less than the guilty scheme of abolition the apprehension of which hurried them into rebellion at first. The measure, instead of promoting the triumph of our arms, would thus promote with fearful vigor the triumph of the rebellion.

But this is not all. The measure would no merely render the suppression of the rebellion more difficult, involving the criminal expendi ture of treasure and of blood, but it would surround with fresh if not insuperable embarassments the re-establishment of the Union It would dangerously complicate the mighty problem in both its civil and its military aspect. In short, it would prove a formidable blow to the hopes of patriots.

Such is a faithful outline of the practical operation of Mr. Trumbull's bill; and the same is true proportionately of every other pending bill of the class. They are all simply instruments of national destruction. They are war measures that in this mortal struggle aid the enemy and cripple ourselves. And such in a greater or less degree must be the character of every confiscation bill designed as a war measure; for the proper office of confiscation, with due respect to Senator Sherman, is civil not military, the punishment of crime and the encouragement of virtue not the winning of victories in the field. And this for the simple reason that confiscation cannot be carried into effect until victory is

The true course, in our judgment, is to put down the rebellion by the plain strong arm, break up and disperse the revolutionary power, re-assert the authority of the government, and, then, when we are clearly in a situation to protect the rebel citizen if he returns to his allegiance, we may wisely as we'l as rightfully denounce confiscation against him if he contumaciously refuses to return. In this way, confiscation, properly guarded and constitutionally administered, may premote the reestablishment of the Union; but in no other. In any other way, confiscation can serve only to gratify the spirit of vengeance, while prolonging and embittering the strife of brethren. There is profound wisdom in Senator Collamer's remarks on this head. "But the first thing to be observed," he said in his recent speech in the Senate, "is, that, however legislation may the Senate, "is, that, however legislation may take place, nothing can be practically done on that point until the insurrection as an armed insurrection is put down, suppressed, for then alone is it that your law can really operate, The plans which different gentlemen have presented all look to that. None of them in any of their essential and leading purposes can be carried into effect in any way until we possess the country. They are not means to that end—the end of suppressing the armed rebellion; they are only to take effect after the armed rebellion is suppressed, for that must be done in order to put such a law into operation; and the question is, can we legislate now wisely, discreetly, advisedly, in such manner that our law may be put in operation to the Federal Government but retaining the privilege of making mouths at it for six months.

WASHINGTON, May 5. The recent vi it of the French Minister to Rich mond has occasioned some peculation on the part of the public, but nothing like what its extraornary character would have justified among eople more skilled in Statecraft than ours. Su cumstances in Europe without absorbing the at-tention of all the cabinets, and leading to im-mediate explanations on the part of those en-gaged. Suppose, for iostance, Iroland in a state of rebellion, and the French Minister at St. James's visiting the headquarters of the insur-gents in the midst of the fray. Would not Eng-land know why he went; at all events, before he returned and renewed his amicable relation to the English government?

The speculations of your contemporaries on M Merciar's vi it have, so far, been extremely su-perficial and absurd. His mission had a far deep or import than any one has yet publicly indicated and it is well to let the people have a correct idea of it, that they may be prepared to meet the po-titical necessities of their position.

And first, M. Mercier did not visit Richmond blook after the French government's tobaccor he is rot a commercial agent, but a diplo Secondly, M Mercier dil not go to Richmord the interest of the rebels. He could not, as an honorable man, have gone through the Union lines, on a mission unfriendly to the Union; and be could not, as the representative of an honorable Government, remain at Washington plotting adversely to the Government to which he is accredited.

Then what did the French Minister go to Rich anond for? The answer is this: To as me the bels that the Emperor of the French does not recognize them as a Power among the nations; that recognize them as a Fower among the nations; that England at d France, by recognizing them as bel-ligerents, did all that could be expected on the part of neurral Governments; that the blockade of their ports is effectual; that they are fairly beaten in arms, and their independence as a nation impossible; that a continuance of hostilities, by the threatened destruction of the cotton and tocco crops of their citizens, would only be wan-nipury to the commerce of the world, injur-g France and Ergland even more than the United States; and that a resort to guerilla war-are, as proposed, when their armies are destroy-ad, would demoralize society, and be simply a return to barbarism.

The rebels have been admonished, therefore, hat a cessation of hostilities is a duty they owe temselves and to the world, which all civilized ations will unite in requiring of them.

At the same time, to save their bonor and their At the same time, to save their nonor and their existence as a free people, the French Emperor has assured them that civilized Europe will not approve the enforcement of any hard terms on them by the United States; that their society shall not be disorganized, their industry shall not be overthrown; their families shall not be impoverished by general and indiscriminate conficction of their property, and that Mr. Lineal's administration. of their property; and that Mr. Lincoln's admin-stration will be held to a faithful observance of the programme with which he appealed to Europe for forbustance at the outbreak of the rebellion, to-wi': A restoration of the Union on the basis of the Constitution, with the inherent rights of all the States preserved The adoption by Congress of Mr. Lincoln's poli-cy of gradual and voluntary emancipation by the blave States themselves, with the co-operation of the National Government, satisfies the consciences of European Governments, and the immediate verthrow of the institutions of the South by Na ional power is condemned on the same grounds as they condemn the destruction of the present crops of cotton and tobacco by the rebels themves. It is contrary to the highest interests of mmerce, civilization, and true philanthropy.

That M. Mercier would not make an important communication to the rebel Confederacy without instruction of the Emperor is certain. That the Emperor would not have such communication President and Mr. Seward is also certain. It follows, that the mission of M. Mercier to the Confederate Government is a voluntary effort of the Emperor of the French for the restoration of the Union, on the basis laid down by the President and Mr. Seward, and gloriously vindicated by the armies of the Union. The President could not but consent at d approve of M. Mercier's communication, because it involved no armistice on our part, no abatement of the demands of the United States Government for the unconditional submis-tion of the rebellion, but sustained the President his defence of the Constitution and Union it neir original spirit, letter, and integrity.

When M. Mercier returned from making his mmunication at Richmond most significant events followed. He was borne to Washington on a French war vessel, the deck of which is the "soil of France." This is the first time in history of the close meeting of the two sovereign-ties. The President and Mr. Seward received M. Mercier at the Navy Yard on his approach to the Capito —a distinguished honor—and when the President stepped on the deck of the Gassendi, he was welcomed by a salute equal in honor to that accorded to the Emperor —That was not a tribute to the head of a dismembered country, but to the chosen ruler of one of the first powers of the world tried in the crucible of war and of the world tried in the crucible of war and of the world, tried in the crucible of war and found triumphant. Within a day or two after the return to Washington, the Ambassador of France is entertained at dinner in noble style by the Secretary of State, and the President and his Premier exhibit that remarkable serenity which says to all the world, "We are masters of the On the other hand, the visit of M. Mercier to tichmond is followed by disaster and dismay for the rebels. Their Congress adjourns precipitately, leaving numerous communications from Jeff Davis, whom they call "their President," unopened on their table. They adjourn when the fate of their rebellion, for weal or wee, is within two weeks of final decision. They leave in such confusion and haste, that the rebel papers of Richmond work them for convade and fixilizes the interest weeks. fusion and haste, that the rebel papers of Richmond mock them for cowards and fugitives that will never return. BALTIMORE, May 8. The following is from the American's account of the battle at Williamsburg:

The battle before Williamsburg on Monday was most warmly contested engagement. Owing to the roughness of the country and bad condi-tion of the roads, but a small portion of our troops could be brought into action.

General Sickles's Excelsior Brigade, and Gene General Sickies e Excessor Brigade, and Gene-ral Hooker's Division bore the brunt of the bat-tle, and fought most gallantly throughout, though greatly overpowered by numbers and the superior position and earthworks of the enemy. The approaches to their earthworks were through a series of ravines and swamps, while rain fell in torrents throughout the day. The men had also wood, and were soaked with the rain and chilled with cold.

The battle raged from early in the morning till three o'clock in the afternoon, when General Moj r Hale was seriously wounded while arging on his men. The body of Capt. Willard was rided of his watch and money by the enemy, as the division of Colonel Hocker, who were nearly the division of Colonel Hooker, who were nearly rostrate with fatigue.
The Third Excelsior regiment of Gen. Sickles origade had its ranks terribly thinned by the balls of the enemy. Not less than two hundred were killed and wounded. They are represented is having fought with much bravery.

After the arrival of McClellan, the enemy were iercely charged upon by Hancock's brigade, and vere driven within their works before nightfall, with heavy loss. Nearly 700 of their dead were left on the field, with many wounded, though most of the latter were carried into Williamsburg. Our loss was less than 300 killed, and about 700 wounded. Night came on, and we occupied the battle-field (the enemy having been driven within his works), and our forces laid on their arm, repared to storm the works in the morning.
On Thuesday morning General McClellan sen out scouts whilst preparing to move on the ene-meters works, who soon reported that he had again taken flight during the night. The works of the enemy and the city of Williamsburg were then Fort Magruder was a most extensive work, capable of prolonged defense, but the enemy had abandoned it early in the night, retreating in the arceatest alarm and confusion, as described by a few negross whom they found in the town. A arge number of wagons, munitions, and a consid-rable store of provisions, were found in the town, and the road was strewn for miles with arms and accourrements. A number of deserters also made heir escape and came within our lines, who ta'ed that they had received intelligence that arge numbers of Federal troops were landing or York river above Williamsburg to flank them.

The Second New Hampshire Regiment had 16 killed, 66 wounded, and 23 missing. The loss of the Second Michigan Regiment, Col. Poe comanding, is as follows:

GEN. J. T. BOYLE'S REPORT TO THE MILITARY BOARD OF KENTUCKY. HEADQUARTERS 1.TH BRIGADE, FIFTH DIVISION, ARMY OF THE OHIO, FYELD OF SHILOH, TENNESSEE, April 16, 1884.

Gen. Jno. W. Finnell, Adjutant-General, Frank Sin: While efficial duty does not require, official propriety does not preclude, my reporting to you the gallant conduct of the brave officers and soldiers of Kentucky under my command in the great battle of Shiloh, on the 7th inst., I have made an efficial report to Brig.-Gen. Thos. L. Crittenden, which you will see when published. But I have deemed it proper to make a more epecial statement to you of the conduct of the Kentuckiaus in my brigade. The 11th brigade, commanded by me at the battle of Shiloh, was composed of the Ninth regiment Kentucky volunteers, Col. E. B. Hobson, and two Ohio regiments, the Nineteenth Ohio, Colonel Bastty, and Fifty-ninth Ohio, Colonel Fayfe. After a tedious and wearlsome march through Tennessee, we reached Savanuah on the Tennessee river, twelve miles below Pittsburg Landing, on the afternoon of Sunday, the 6th inst., while the battle of Pittsburg Landing was in progress. Gen. Crittenden, having received orders to move his forces immediately to the scene of ac ion, made arrangement for a fleet of steamboats to transport them to Pittsburg Landing. We arrived at the Landing at near 10 o'clock at night, and, so soon as the steamers were moored to the shore, I marched my brigade to a point beyond the crest of the hill stove Pittsburg Landing, passing with some difficulty through large bodies of the pane stricken soldiers of Gen. Grant's army. I formed in line of battle in rear of the forces of Gen. Nelson, and remained on cur arms during the night in a drenching rain. The rain SIR: While official duty does not require, offimy. I formed in line of battle in rear of the forces of Gen. Nelson, and remained on our arms during the night in a drenching rain. The rain cessed by daylight. Gen. Nelson moved his division soon after daylight toward the left, and advanced upon the enemy, making a fierce and destructive attack upon them and driving them before him. Gen. Crittenden moved his division including my higsde to the centre.

driving them before him. Gen. Crittenden moved his division, including my brigade, to the centre of the line of attack. Gen. McCook, with his division, occupied the line to cur right. Gen. Crittenden, with his division, moved steadily upon the centre, soon engaging the enemy with the lath brigade on my left. The 11th Regiment Kentucky Volunteers, Col. Hawkins, and 26 h. Regiment Kentucky Volunteers, Lieut. Col. Maxwell, with an Obio regiment, drove the enemy before them, forcing them to leave their guns. The enemy being reinforced returned to their guns, and the 14th brigade having been withdrawn to reform, Gen. Crittenden directed me to order up the 18th regiment, Col. E. H. Hobson. This brave and gallant efficer responded with slacrity, and, at the bead of his regiment, led them to a further without cause and unnatural and wicked in the extreme.

Resolved, That we are unalterably attached to this rebellion against it, and eeeking its overthrow, as utterly without cause and unnatural and wicked in the extreme.

Resolved, That we are unalterably attached to the Government of the United States, and to its institutions, and regard the action of those now in rebellion against it, and eeeking its overthrow, as utterly without cause and unnatural and wicked in the extreme.

Col. Hobson, Mejor Hobson, acting Lieut. Col., and Capt. Towles, acting Major, deported themselves with great coolness and courage, as did their officers and men. Captains Thompson, Duncan, Caldwell, and Adjutant Stuart, and all others deported themselves with gallantry and courage. There was a slight recoil of the rear line of Col. Hobson's regiment, caused by a remnant of Wisconsin trops breaking through. No officers and men ever deported themselves with more steady courage than Col. hrough. No efficers and men ever deported hemselves with more steady courage than Col.

Resolved, That we utterly condemn the course pursued by the abolitionists in Congress, and regard them as allies and coworkers with the rebels in ander the first first control of the enemy, firing into them volley upon volley with deadly effect, driving them before him, until they fled precipitately, deserting their guns, four pieces of artillery, which were captured by Col. Grider and his man, from the fact that he lost three commissions. having withdrawn their delegation from Con-gress, leaving the radicals of the North to con-summate their nefarious schemes, in defiance of the Constitu ion and laws of the land. his officers and men, with few exceptions, displayed extraordinary courage and determined bravery. Our noble old State may feel a just pride in the conduct of the gallant Colonel Grider and Colonel Hobson and their brave men on the field of Shiloh. Besides the commendable and gallant conduct of my staff mentioned in my official report, I ought to have mentioned to you the names of my escort, all Kentuckians: Sergeant South, privates Key, McGrew, Garner, and volunteer escort Frank Pope, of Louisville, all of whom were in the midst of the fight, and displayed the greatest fidelity and courage. They were detailed as my escort, from the cavalry regiment of the gallant ol. J. S. Jackson, and are worthy specimens of that noble regiment. Some H. A. H.dges introduced the following:

WHEREAS, It is important that the best men be selected to fill the various county cflices, and it is desirable that harmony and good feeling be maintained amongst the Union men of the county, and there being several candidates already announced for some of the offices, therefore,

Resolved, That a mass convention of the Union men of the county be called to meet at the courthouse at Munfordville, on the first Monday of June next, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the various county offices, and that each voting district is hereby unged to send a full each specimens of that noble regiment. Some facts stated in this letter were omitted rom my report, partly because it was hurriedly written, and because the main facts here stated are set forth in the reports of the regimental commanders, which are referred to as a part of my report.

I thought it would be gratifying to you and the Military Board, and to the loyal people of Kentucky, to bear in a special communication some account of the gallant conduct of the Kentuckians at Shiloh. In speaking of them especially here, I would not and do not intend to abate in any degree the just meed of praise due to the noble Ohio regiments which constituted one-half of my brigade. Col. Beatty, 19th Ohio, and Col. Fyffa, 59th Ohio, contributed to the success on the 7th instant, and co-operated with my other day of June, as an appropriate time for holding said convention, and if called, that V. Garvin, H. A. Hodges, P. J. Connelly, P. L. Maxey, K. Jamison, L. P. Wright, R. W. So far as I have heard, all the Kentucky troops engaged in the battle of Shiloh displayed great coolness and courage, and sustained the ancient renown and glory of the Commonwealth.

> Another Instalment of Yankees .- A de ANOTHER INSTALMENT OF YANKEES.—A detachment from Gen. Jackson's army brought down by the Central Railroad yesterday twenty-tix prisoner:—sixteen Yankees and ten domestic traitors. The latter were a very squalid and miserable, hang-dog looking set of creatures. While they might have served the enemy as spiss on the actions of our brave boys, they could hardly, judging from appearances, have inflicted any serious damage on the cause of Southern rights by their characters or example. Some of the Yankees were tolerably fair specimens of humanity, but in several of them the brule stuck out so far that it could not be concealed. A number of Another Triumphant Battle!

The Rebel Army Again in Flight!

The Union Army Still in Pursuit!

The following, dated Yorktown, May 8, at ten o'clock, is taken from the correspondence of the American of this city, as I close my letter: The latest intelligence received from the field of battle is, that Gen. McClellan has come up with the enemy about eight miles beyond Williamsburg, and after a pretty severe skirmish with his rear, has again put him to flight across the Chickahuming. A large additional number of prisoners have been taken, including many deserter, who report that they have had rothing to eat but a few hard biscuit for 48 hours, and when brought in fell down in a state of exhaustion. Heavy canonading could be heard by the boats coming down the river at an early hour this morning. Nothing as to results is yet ascertained.

There is no doubt but the whole army of Lie, Johnson, and Magruder are in a state of utter disorganization, and, under the rapid pursuit of McClellan, are fleeing with great precipitation, with the intention of making a stand anywhere, and, unless they reach Richmond in boats by way of James river, they will cartainly be intercepted and captured by the forces landing at West Point. Not less than fifty steamers are engaged in transporting the balance of the army to We the Point.

They having but a small support of infantry, were overwhelmed by a superior force and were compelled to abandon their guns, but, before the close of the day, this battery, with one of the enemy's, was recaptured by General McCiellan, and the priseners they had taken were found in Williamsburg the next day, engaged in attending the wounded of the enemy left behind.

The retreat of the enemy was accompanied by too much confusion and haste to be troubled with prisoners.

Latest —I have just learned that the enemy Latest —I have just learned that the enemy have destroyed all the bridges across the Chickahoming, and that Gen. McClellan is resting his army on this side. It will be remembered that the Chickahoming runs parallel with the James river, into which it enters. It is the general impression that Gen. McClellan has now got the nemy just where he wants them. President Lincoln arrived here this morning and spent the day with Gen. Wool—this P. M. he visited Newport News to see Gen. Manesield and to have a clear view of the Morrimac, which has been lying off Craney Island all the P. M. for the purpose, no doubt, of preventing our gunboats from running up the James river. She made no attempt to come out.

The George Peabody arrived here from Hatters to-day, and started immediately for New York.

No news has transpired.

WASHINGTON, May 7.

A despatch from New York, with information brought by the Columbia of the capture of New Orleans, was received in the Senate this afternoon during the debate upon the city railroad bill. It was well received, and Senator McDougal immediately moved a vote of thanks to Commodore Farragut and General Butler, saying to the Senators that their recognition of such important them upon the only condition that they ground their arms and return to their allegiance, we demand, in the name of even handed justice, that the real conspirators shall be made to pay the penalty annexed to their crimes.

Resolved, That whilst we are in favor of perfect freedom of thought, speech, and action being accorded to every freeman, yet we hold it a truism that no man has a right to speak or act in injeopardy—therefore, that no man in this government may rightfully aid the enemies of the country, whether by word or deed.

Resolved, That we are unwilling that those who have courselted, aided, abetted, or countenanced the invasion of our State by the rebels, or who sympathize with them in their effort to destroy and subvert our institutions shall hold any position of trust, honor, or profit which the people may of right bestow; and, as this is id upitably the feeling of an overwhelming majority of the people of this county, we do hareby invite.

Our city was thrown into a state of ferment and excitement last evening, by a report that Paducah had been captured. It turned out to be a big scare. Some of Curtis' cavalry, out on a reconnoisance from Fort Heimar, encountered some of Clay King's rebel cavalry. It was reported that he had captured about two hundred of our men. HINTS ON THE POTATO DISEASE .- From an elaborate article in a recent number of the Journal of the West of England Society, on the potato culture, from the pen of Dr. Lang, in which many curious and important truths are discussed, the following may be regarded as conclusions deduced from his treatment of the whole subject:

1. The desirability of early planting in dry, clean, and well-prepared ground.

2 That white potatoes are least liable to the disease, and therefore to be preferred to the colored sorts.

3. That the soil in no case produces or in fluences the disease.
4. That the disease is of a fungoid charac ter, investing many varieties of plants and in-creased in activity by atmospheric causes.

5. That all heterogeneous manures are in-

6. That lime and salt, mixed in the propor tion of eight tuns of lime with three hundre weight of common salt, is the best manure and this is the proportion used to the acre. 7. That potatoes that ripen earliest shoul be exclusively grown.

8. That as soon as the disease appears earthing up the stalks repeatedly with fine earth from the centre of the trench is the only effectual preventive to its ravages. To talls this morning the most deplorable tale ever heard in America, or, we believe, in the whole world. Two contemptible little steamers have come up to the great city of New Orleans—inhabited by a population of two hundred thousand souls, defended by miles upon miles of columbiads and rifled cannon, possessing six floating batteries of immense power, and containing within here and filled cannon, possessing six floating patteries of immense power, and containing within her bosom not less than thirty thou and disciplined troops—and have commanded the authorities to haul down the Confederate flag! As we write, there has been no intelligence of its having been hauled down; but we are prepared to expect the
